

Budget 2017

The SIA worked with government agencies wanting to implement a social investment approach for Budget 2017.

What is a social investment approach?

A social investment approach will help decision-makers know if their services are effective.

It will also help them know more about:

- the kinds of people who are receiving their services
- how much those services cost
- the value they're getting from them
- how much they contribute to their policy priorities.
